MAYOR REPORTS . . .

City's Spending 'Favored' North

By BOB SCHREPP

Star Staff Writer

Figures supplied by Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf show that public works expenditures during the construction seasons 1963 through 1966 were allocated more favorably to the north side of O St. than the south, in variance with the actual population split.

The mayor had promised to give the figures, prepared earlier this year by the engineering department, to Havelock businessmen after their charge last week that the city "spends millions south of O without any trouble" while neglecting the northeast sector.

The Havelock group is waging a determined fight for construction of a northeast Lincoln traffic system that they say can be accomplished at much less cost and in less time than the proposed $19 million Northeast Radial now being considered by the City Council.

60% South

According to the 1960 U.S. Census, approximately 60% of Lincoln's population lives south of O St. and 40% north.

The engineering division reported that for the four construction years ending Jan. 1, 1967, public works expenditures north of O St. totaled $4,168,400, or 43.2% of the total expenditures, and $5,486,800 south of O, or 56.8%.

The expenditure figures are for street, water, sanitary sewer and storm sewer construction.

Not Included

The engineering division noted that all projects which were paid for in full by the federal government were not included in the tabulation. These include such items as the relocation of utilities which were required to accommodate the construction of Interstate 180 or the widening of Cornhusker Hwy.

Such federal aid projects as sewage lift stations or treatment plants were included.

Broken Down

Projects which benefit the entire city or benefit areas both north and south of O have been broken down on a proportional basis and costs assigned both north and south.

For the construction years 1964 and 1965, with some carry-over items included, $4,303,800, or 50.2% of the total $8,576,700 was spent north of O and $4,272,900, or 49.8% south.

Director of Public Works Robert Obering said that exact figures for the 1967 construction year are not presently available, but he asserted that expenditures have been "pretty well balanced."

Comparable

He noted that the major capital expenditures—widening and resurfacing Vine St., to the north, and South St.—are "both comparable in price," although right-of-way along South St. was more expensive to acquire.

Vine St., a 35-block project (15th to 50th) and South St., a 31-block project (8th to 39th), should be completed at about the same time—the middle of next summer—Obering said.

He said sewer and water construction was down during the 1967 season and that street resurfacing was "well balanced, as it has been year to year."

Close To Fulcrum

No one has stood so close so long to the fulcrum of Soviet power as Mikoyan—first as one of the young men from the Caucasus brought up to Moscow in 1926 by Stalin and later, after Stalin's death, as the right-hand man of Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Mikoyan has seen Russia move from bottom rank among European powers to the second in the world to the United States—militarily, industrially, economically. And in space and some areas of technology and science she may be the first.

Proudly Mikoyan ticks off Soviet material gains—elimination of illiteracy, improvement of life, gains in housing, culture, education, standard of living, creature comforts. He concedes that not everything has gone according to plan, that there have been shortfalls from the goals envisaged by Vladimir Ilyich Lenin when he launched his successful coup d'état on Nov. 7, 1917.

Stalin Still Present

Some said Egypt was ready to agree that Israeli ships should use the Suez Canal also, provided Israel gave Palestine Arab refugees of the 1948 war a choice between returning permanently to Israeli territory or accepting compensation for settling elsewhere.

A few expressed belief that the Egyptians would concede Israeli use of both waterways without linking the Suez directly with the refugee problem.

They said they thought Egypt would accept a five-point plan for a Security-Council settlement that some delegates have discussed. This plan provides that:

1—Israel would withdraw its troops in stages coordinated with steps to settle other problems.

2—Coexistence would be established in the Middle East "guaranteeing the renunciation of the use of force and the security of all states in the region."

3—The Palestine Arab refugees would be settled permanently, preferably in places of their own choice, and Israel would pay a substantial share of the cost.

4—There would be freedom of navigation through both the Strait of Tiran and the Suez Canal for "all states, without restriction."

5—Sensitive zones between Israel and the Arab countries would be demilitarized, with the definition of permanent frontiers left for later.

Revolt Moved Russia Forward

"We were one of the most backward of nations and now we are one of the most advanced."

Sitting in his Kremlin office with the summer sun glancing through the window, Anastas I. Mikoyan, member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party for 44 years, thus summed up Bolshevik rule in Russia.

Probably no one in Moscow was in a better position to assess the 50 Bolshevik years that will be celebrated Nov. 7 when Mikoyan, dapper and sparkling-eyed despite his 71 years.

ANASTAS MIKOYAN

doctrine of de-Stalinization he shows concern for the fact that after 15 years the dark stain of Stalin's terror has not been entirely eradicated.

Probably no one has been more aware over the years than Mikoyan of the gap between Soviet promise and Soviet performance—a gap visible almost from the moment when, 24 hours after having toppled Alexander Kerensky's provisional government, Lenin stepped before a cheering crowd at the Smolny Institute in Leningrad and said:

"We will now proceed to construct the socialist order."

Now 50 years have passed since the dramatic days of 1917. For 50 years Russia has been ruled as a Soviet state on the principles of what Lenin called the "dictatorship of the proletariat"—actually, dictatorship by the ruling elite of the communist party.

Not Withered Away

The state has not, as Lenin forecast, withered away. The vision of a new "soviet man," idealistic and humanitarian, and the utopia he foresaw of a world brotherhood of man is unfulfilled.

Nearly one third of the world is under communist rule of one kind or another. Communist parties, overt or clandestine, exist in all countries. The doctrine of communism and the politics of the communist world have influenced world politics and internal regimes almost everywhere.

Yet, in the 50th year of the revolution and the centenary of the appearance of the Communist Manifesto in 1848, never has conflict so bitter, so intractable divided communist revolutionaries from Moscow to Peking, from Havana to Hanoi, from India to the United States.

Even Mikoyan concedes that events have not turned out precisely as expected. Lenin and his associates, with the possible exception of Stalin, probably no one has been more aware over the years than Mikoyan of the gap between Soviet promise and Soviet performance—a gap visible almost from the moment when, 24 hours after having toppled Alexander Kerensky's provisional government, Lenin stepped before a cheering crowd at the Smolny Institute in Leningrad and said:

50 Years Of Bolshevism

The accompanying article is the first in a series from the New York Times News Service on the 50th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution in Russia.

The series of articles is the result of the largest staff effort ever undertaken by The Times for a special project, and results from the view that the revolution and the emergence of the Soviet state and all that it implies is perhaps the major event of the 20th century.

Harrison Salisbury, author of this first article, headed a team of Times writers, all of whom have visited the Soviet Union in recent months in connection with the series.

in, saw their revolution as merely the first in a wave that would sweep Europe.

"All we Bolsheviks thought until 1924 (when Lenin died) that the world revolution would be victorious in Europe very soon, if not today, then tomorrow," Mikoyan recalled.

"I even put down in my diary: 'soon the world revolution will be victorious.' I had in view, most of all, Germany. I believed in that."

Distant Now

The world revolution did not come in 1924. By 1967, it seemed so distant that the very phrase hardly passed Russian lips.

Fifty years after the Nov. 7 coup in which, as Mikoyan recalled, fewer people lost their lives than die in traffic accidents on an ordinary New York weekend, the achievements of Soviet rule were visible throughout Russia. Moscow's world status has risen mightily. But her revolutionary spirit was dim.

Not only had world revolution failed to occur; the transformation of man that the revolutionaries had expected had misfired.

The Soviet state had become the sole owner and employer of labor. But exploitation of man, as in Lenin's dream, had not ended. Instead, there had arisen exploitation of man by the world's greatest employer, the Soviet state, with party, courts, secret police, army, press, unions and propaganda to enforce its dictate.

For nearly 30 of Soviet Russia's 50 years from shortly after Lenin's death in January, 1924, until Stalin's death on March 5, 1953, the figure of Stalin towered over the Soviet state. The memory of his terror, the persistence of his harsh methods, the survival of his police apparatus and, most pervasive, the habits and style that he infused into the monstrous Soviet bureaucracy, threw a shadow over the 50th anniversary celebrations.

(Tomorrow: Russian advances apparent.)

His balance sheet estimates expenditures and commitments of $254 million for the two-year period, $102 million being expended by next June 30 and $152 for the next fiscal year ending June 30, 1969.

Balanced

Balanced against the expenditure side of the ledger are estimated revenues totaling $255 million.

Of course, a compromise between these two extremes could come between the governor and the senators. A leading argument for such compromise could center on a better balancing of the two revenue sources.

'Deficit Trend'

Which route is a decision for the governor and Legislature. McNeil only points out the "deficit trend" in the cash flow pattern must be reversed in early 1969 to prepare for the next biennium.

With no new expenditure programs next biennium but allowing a 5% inflationary increase plus the "state aid" commitments by the 1967 Legislature, the cash flow "deficits" could be as much as $25 million at times.

That means, McNeil explained, the state would have to register warrants or else withhold payment on its obligations until the revenue becomes available.

Such payment delays could come in the transfer of funds for state aid to education or local governments or in the obligations of the state government.

Downward Trend

The tax commissioner estimates cash flow will be adequate through the biennium, but will begin a trend downward below the "safe" line in about April, 1969.

Largely responsible for this trend are the $50 million

24 Destroyed In Two Blazes

. . . WOMAN DIES IN MISHAP

Los Angeles (AP) — Fast-moving brush fires, fed by high winds resulted in the death of one person Sunday, destroyed 24 homes and blackened 24,000 acres.

Fire officials said Mrs. Janet Cameron of Simi, Calif., was killed when a fire truck collided with her car. Two firemen and two other motorists were hospitalized.

9,000 Acres

Firemen said 22 homes were lost and at least 30 damaged by flames in a 9,000-acre fire in Chatsworth, a San Fernando Valley community 30 miles northwest of Los Angeles.

Contained

Firemen said they contained the Ventura County blaze on the north, south and west perimeters, but it was still out of control on the east.

The third fire broke out in the afternoon near Simi, which is 20 miles east of Santa Paula.

The Simi fire raged out of control over 300 acres, threatening the Rocketyne test center of North American Rockwell Corp. The center had been menaced earlier in the day by the Chatsworth fire which

Gage County Claims Recreation 'First'

Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Beatrice—Gage County will soon have one more reason for proclaiming itself "the watershed capital of the world."

This time it's a 425-acre "first"—the first recreation park in the state to be funded through the Small Watershed Act. After five years of planning and head-butting litigation, Rockford Lake is under construction and less than a year from completion.

A 150-acre lake 10 miles southeast of Beatrice, comparable in size to highly-touted Burchard State Lake, will back up from a dam over a quarter-mile long. The $270,000 project is the special pride of Mud Creek Watershed Conservancy District.

Flood Control Expansion

"The multi-purpose lake is an expansion of Mud Creek's original proposal for a 60-acre flood control structure," reflected Orville Jones, helping spearhead the venture as head of the local U.S. Soil Conservation Service. "The Watershed Act was broadened to permit recreational cost-sharing in 1962, and within a couple months we had a committee looking into the possibilities."

Leading the informally-created Gage County recreation committee was farmer Chet Ellis of Liberty, an ardent conservation devotee. Businessmen and various promotional groups shared in the planning, much of the red tape snarling Dwight Dell, Mud Creek's chairman.

A year of investigation preceded an agreement with the State Game Commission to share the project's cost and assume its management upon completion. SCS pays all the flood control por-

"While this is a state first, it is likely that a number of recreational developments will follow," predicted Jones. "We can't beat every county on every point, but we can outdo them all on some," explained Jones, local work unit conservationist for six years. "We're proud of our number of districts, number of districts completed, total number of structures and the fact that our Little Indian was a pilot project. Now we can brag a little about our recreation first."

The affable Jones, unfortunately, will not be on hand next summer to see the first water skiers and fishermen take to Rockford's hopefully blue water. He has volunteered for a two-year conservation assignment in Nigeria.

Omaha (P) — Former Gov. Frank Morrison said Sunday that his suggestion to expand Omaha University into Elmwood Park was strictly his own idea.

Morrison said no representative of Omaha U. or the University Merger Committee had ever discussed the possibility with himself or any other member of the speakers bureau set up to push for the merger of OU with the University of Nebraska. Morrison is co-chairman of the speakers bureau.

Morrison said, "An apparent attempt is being made to put Frank Morrison at cross purposes with the Friends of the Parks Committee. And the only possible effect of such action is to hamper the campaign for the merger of the two schools."

He said he hoped the Friends of the Parks do not mount a program of opposition merely because they do not agree with his personal observations.

Public Opposes LBJ's Tax Hike, Tight Money

By LOUIS HARRIS

The American people are acutely aware of the pinch of rising living costs, but three to one they are opposed to solutions suggested by the Johnson administration: higher federal income taxes or a return to tight-money policies. Instead, the public favors a cut in federal spending and wage and price controls.

Opposition to a tax hike appears to be rising rather than declining, despite the long campaign by the President and Secretary of the Treasury Fowler to push a 10% surcharge on income taxes through Congress this year.

State Power Doubted

It has been reported that leaders of both industry and unions are adamantly opposed to a system of control such as was instituted during the Korean war. If this is true, it can be concluded that the leadership of industry, unions and government are out of step with the inclination of the people to accept controls to curb inflation.

Here is a statistical summary of what the public is willing to go along with a solution to the inflation problem which the Johnson administration has avoided entirely: price and wage controls.

MEASURES TO CURB INFLATION

Favor Oppose Not Sure
Pass 10% tax 15% 78% 7%
Reinstate tight money 20% 56% 24%
Pass small tax 21% 67% 12%
More strict in system of price-wage controls 43% 38% 19%
Reduce federal spending 73% 12% 15%

The chief candidates of the general public for cuts in federal spending are the space program and agricultural subsidies.

Here is how the Harris Survey tested some of the basic tenets of the new economics. A cross section of the public was asked:

"I want to read some statements about the government and the economic system. For each, tell me if you tend to agree or disagree."

NEW ECONOMIC CONCEPTS

Tax cuts give people more money to spend, thus maintaining prosperity slow 59% 23% 18%
One way to combat inflation is a cheap price to pay to maintain prosperity and full employment. A and raising interest rates — is rejected 56 to 20%. This year's recommended prescription — the 10% tax surcharge — is opposed by 78 to 15%. The concept of cutting consumer spending by raising taxes, thereby controlling inflation, is rejected by 59 to 23%.

If opposition to individual sacrifice were the only response of the American people, it would be fair to conclude that the public only wants the easy benefits of the new economics — tax cuts and rising wages.

The gap in Secretary Fowler's position is that by a slim margin, 43 to 38%; people are

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLES

Experience has caused us to suspect that there may well be thousands of psychotic dogs among the canine population. The dog lacks the mind of his human master and comes to rely heavily on sheer experience.

If a dog is taught to do things a certain way, he will generally stick with that way unless his environment is drastically changed. If some pattern of behavior is repeated often enough, the dog will come to accept it as routine.

Indeed, this is the theory upon which dogs are trained. The trainer simply drills something into the dog through the process of constant repetition. But it must be quite frustrating to the dog, then, when this established pattern is upset.

A family dog, for instance, will come to live quite compatibly with the comings and goings of the various members of the family. For instance, the dog comes to accept the fact that the children go off to school in the morning and will not be seen by him again until later in the afternoon.

By instinct, the dog comes to know just about the time in the afternoon that the children will return. If the hour of return is 3:30 p.m., the dog will become restless about 3:15 p.m. and begin barking some at about 3:25 p.m.

By 3:30 p.m., the dog has worked himself into a high state of excitement and is a jumping, running bundle of nerves by the time the children show up. We don't know how the dog knows what time it is, but he does.

However, this is the pattern for only five days of the week and the dog makes a quick adjustment to the other two days. It does not take the dog long to figure out that it is Saturday or Sunday and the children are around the house.

Once the dog discovers this, he is no longer content to sun himself in his pen until 3:30 in the afternoon. He begins pacing back and forth in the pen, barking every now and then just to let everyone know he is there.

But the minute Monday rolls around, he again lies comfortably in the sun until 3:30 p.m. However, even this routine can suddenly become upset, as it is when the schools have a holiday somewhere along the way.

Just consider the life of the dog at such times. He has patiently waited out Monday through Wednesday and then is looking forward to the weekend two days hence.

However, he suddenly discovers that the weekend has arrived two days early. As he keeps an eye on the street, he notices that no children pass by on their way to school. He is not fed as usual at 7:30 a.m. because the children are sleeping in and will feed him later.

The poor animal knows it is only Thursday but everything is going like Saturday. At about 8:30 a.m. he is fed but his benefactor, rather than hurrying off, sticks around for a little wrestling and running.

That is a dead giveaway. The dog immediately concludes he has miscounted the days and it is Saturday, for sure. But then things get complicated on the other end.

Naturally, by the time Saturday arrives, the dog figures it is Monday and another dull day is in store for him. But then the same routine as Thursday is repeated and the dog concludes the world has gone crazy.

But the dog has one big advantage. Being a simple-minded creature, the dog doesn't throw up his paws in disgust or abandonment.

Rather, he delights in his unusual windfall and is happy with the end results of things, regardless of how it all came to be. If he is a little psychotic, he doesn't let it bother him and he and his companions enjoy a delightful association.

PHYLLIS BATTELLE

Gray Flannel Suit
Dandruff Solution

NEW YORK — There is more dandruff, per cubic head, in New York and Chicago than any other cities in America.

I mention this, not merely as a public service to people who have run out of small talk for the cocktail party season, but to make men and women in smaller and warmer communities happier. Everybody can use a little more happiness these days.

But before non-New Yorkers and Chicagoans let their joy get out of hand, it should be added that dandruff (or follicle fallout) is as much a professional plague as it is a geographical problem. Certain professions are "dandruff-prone," and if you belong to these professions, you will be afflicted regardless of where you live.

Advertising and public relations executives appear to be the most heavily afflicted (which explains why an ad man is called a white collar worker even if he's wearing a blue shirt), with a 95 per cent ratio of victims. Radio and television personnel come next, with some 90 per cent suffering chronic or seasonal dandruff.

Eighty-seven per cent of people who work in movies and journalism have "it," and so do 83 per cent of management personnel and 81 per cent of teachers.

The least dandruffed people in the country are pregnant women.

"We explain our statistics," a spokesman for a dandruff research organization told me, "by saying that these fields, and these people work under the most rigorous pressures. And pressures, along with emotional stress, are closely related to that old bugaboo, dandruff. As for the geographical locations, the condition has proven to be worse in northern climates, and in winter more than in summer."

"There is no scientific reason for this that we can discover, beyond our assumption that in the North people work harder, under more tension, than they do in the South."

Dandruff is, therefore, at least an honorable disease.

And when will they bring back the gray flannel suit?

Children used to be seen but not heard.

Now they are heard but not seen.

It is the era of the child's private bedroom telephone. Thousands upon thousands of youngsters now have direct lines—cost paid out of their allowances or other earnings, or generously donated by parents only too grateful to pitch in for the sake of keeping the family phone free for adult talk.

The children's phone trend began about a decade ago, with phone companies even setting up special "junior rates" for installation and usage of young people's extensions.

The Rime Of The Ancient Mariner

Hidden Under The Basket

Nebraska, we are afraid, has a lot of its potential hidden under a basket, for whatever the reason might be. This was exemplified when a group of California educators came to Lincoln to find out about a new concept in education.

They had reservations about learning anything of value but discovered their trip to be very worthwhile.

Specifically, they visited the Lincoln Job Corps Center where a so-called "system" method of education is used. This is simply a concept of gradual advancement of the student, then, in training those who come after him. It is a concept particularly well fitted to vocational education, as the California group granted.

It is a system developed by a subsidiary of Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha and to be implemented by that organization at a number of vocational education centers across the nation under the direction of the U.S. Labor Department.

You may recall that it was with considerable misgivings that the Office of Economic Opportunity approved Northern as the contractor on the Lincoln Job Corps.

It was the opinion of the OEO that Northern just lacked the muscle to get the job done. It was not big enough to favorably impress the OEO.

But Northern got the contract, anyway, and the OEO has learned that it couldn't have done business with a better outfit. Not only has Northern done the job, but its operation has become a national showcase. If you only look for it, Nebraska has a great deal of potential on quite a wide front, as Northern has shown the OEO.

It is a system developed by a subsidiary of Northern Natural Gas Co. of Omaha and to be implemented by that or-

More Support For Electoral Reform

For perhaps the first time in United States history, a serious drive is underway to abolish the antiquated and dangerous electoral college. Spearheading the plan is Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, whose committee has recently concluded hearings on alternate proposals. But support for the movement is not limited to Congress. The Federal Bar Association (FBA) also feels the electoral college has outlived its usefulness.

The FBA has formulated an eight-point proposal which it thinks eliminates the danger of minority presidents and of candidates being elected in the House on a one-state, one-vote basis. FBA has passed a resolution which would provide for the election of the president and the vice president by direct popular vote, but with the stipulation that no one could be elected to either office without winning at least 40% of the vote. Should no candidate get 40%, a runoff election would be held. FBA would also loosen residency requirements for national elections, another election reform sorely needed in a society as mobile as this one.

Bayh, FBA and other supporters of electoral college abolition are on the right track. With George Wallace and possibly others in the race for president next year, this could very well be the time when the presidential election is tossed to the House. And at that point, anything could happen.

Should the presidential election go to the House, each state would have one vote. Thus Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming could outvote New York, Illinois and California. And that makes no sense at all. If the President is "for all of the people," as Lyndon Johnson is fond of saying, then it seems reasonable to take measures to assure his election is by all of the people, too.

I am referring to the bal-

ON TARGET

By DON WALTON

You may recall that two Republican senatorial district delegates to New York's constitutional convention visited the Legislature last spring to survey Nebraska's unique unicameral system. What did they report to Republican delegates when Walton returned to New York?

They offered no recommendation on unicameralism itself, but they indicated strong opposition toward the non-partisan character of Nebraska's Legislature and were deeply disturbed by the ease with which Nebraska voters can overturn legislative acts at subsequent elections.

The New Yorkers also had some interesting observations about Nebraska in their 19-page report to convention delegates.

For instance: "Nebraskans, far from being 'backward' or 'fuddy-duddy,' are today, as they always have been, willing to try new ideas and improvements."

Nebraska, they suggested, has a political heritage of progressivism and even radicalism, which produced such leaders as William Jennings Bryan and George W. Norris.

The East labors under "common misconceptions" about Nebraska, they reported, including the belief that it is totally agricultural and that politically it is "a backward state."

On the contrary, the New Yorkers said, "dramatic governmental innovations are not unusual in Nebraska" and its population is now overbalanced toward the urban, non-agricultural sphere.

What disturbed the New

the lack of a representative system. Believing as we do in the representative system of government, we cannot agree that either the initiative or the referendum are necessary adjuncts of it, anywhere."

As for the non-partisan aspect of the Legislature:

"We cannot dispel the feeling that a non-partisanship creates a vacuum — into which some power, some influence will inevitably attempt to move."

Nebraskans who support the non-partisan character of their Legislature may be concerned that senators do not fall prey to party dictatorship.

The New Yorkers noted,

"is there not a far greater chance for an individual to become beholden to one or more special interest groups in this way?"

Non-partisan organization of the Legislature has pro-

There must be more reasoning used in these situations. I do not believe that these big-salary people can justify their position. It is this difference in wages which is the real reason why so much contention exists in what should be a calm relationship.

My weak voice will not accomplish anything, but let the fellows who are really hurt stand up and protest—if not singly, then by the tens, twenties, fifties or even the thousands—until recognition is achieved.

How It Was

Ansley, Neb.

The children of years back used to have various little pleasures of their own making. One of these was the paraffin from jelly glasses, which had been washed and dried and put away. They would take one of these round disks of wax, break it up and pass it around, and believe me, all would chew heartily.

Another popular item was something small children would have their mothers make. It was a piece of white cloth with sugar in it, tied into a small sack-like object. The youngsters would suck on these very contentedly. In those days, people went to town only about once a month or so, so money and candy were both scarce articles.

The men and boys used to play mumble-peg with jack-knives for a pastime.

Aid And Comfort

Alexandria, Neb.

McNamara agrees with Washington Senator Jackson that if the war supplies from Soviet Russia and Communist China are cut off, the North Vietnamese would be forced to end the war. However, he is against doing so because such actions would bring about a direct confrontation with those communist countries.

It is absurd to think McNamara is a communist, but if he were, what greater service could he do the leaders of those communist countries than give them official assurance that they run no risk in continuing to supply the Viet Cong with war supplies which, with this public testimony, is what he does?

Soviets Rap Warmongering 'Madmen'

Volgograd, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Dedicating a huge monument to the Red army's World War II victory at Stalingrad, Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev declared Sunday some countries "threaten to plunge mankind into a new war."

Brezhnev refrained from accusing the United States by name but his statement followed a charge that "the criminal activities of the U.S.A. are continuing against the Vietnamese people."

"There are still madmen," he said, "who threaten to plunge mankind into a new war."

Brezhnev's speech came at the end of a two-hour ceremony in this city formerly known as Stalingrad dedicating the sprawling monument, which is made up of several sculptures and an eternal flame. It is topped with an enormous gray statue of a woman holding a sword, symbolizing the defense of Volgograd against the next invader.

"Crack Nazi troops were bled white in this battle," Brezhnev said.

The offensive momentum of the enemy petered out and the moral spirit of fascism was broken here. Everywhere people felt and understood that the outcome of the war was being decided here. This was clear to both our enemies and our allies."

"Excited"

After Brezhnev finished his speech the television microphone picked up his voice as he whispered to a friend: "I was very excited."

Defense Minister Andrei A.

Grekko spoke earlier in the ceremony, declaring that the Soviet armed forces are being strengthened "taking into consideration the present situation." He did not elaborate.

Most of the leadership made the 600-mile trip to Volgograd for the ceremony. Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny were present but did not speak.

Vietnam Slogan

In Moscow, the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda published a slogan on Vietnam omitting demands for an unconditional halt of U.S. bombings of the North and a withdrawal from the South. Both demands were included in slogans last May Day.

Experienced Kremlin watchers said the slogan might not mean any publicly visible shift in attitudes on peace talks. But they added it might foreshadow a change in private discussions with both North Vietnam and the United States.

The slogan for the Nov. 7 celebration of the Bolshevik Revolution said: "Fraternal greetings to the courageous Vietnamese people who are waging a heroic struggle against the aggression of American imperialism. Long live the international solidarity of the fighters in Vietnam. Shame on American aggressors."

Slogans reflect the thinking of Communist party leaders. But it was noted that the Soviet Union last week announced a 15% increase of its defense budget, giving as one reason increased aid to North Vietnam.

The list of slogans was only about half as long as usual, containing 57. They focused on domestic matters, praising Soviet progress under communism in keeping with the Nov. 7 celebrations of 50 years of Communist power.

'Town Meeting' Series To Kick Off At Alliance

Gov. Norbert Tiemann will take his program to the people Monday in the first of a series of town hall meetings scheduled throughout the state.

Tiemann and a number of state officials will fly to Alliance Monday afternoon for a 7:30 p.m. public meeting at the Elks Club kicking off what the governor described as "an experiment in government and politics."

Other town hall meetings will be held this week in Norfolk and Holdrege.

Explain Programs'

"We are going to take to the people representatives of state government to explain programs which the Legislature passed, some of which we initiated," Tiemann said.

Immolation Is Called Protest To Viet War

Los Angeles (AP) — A woman burned herself to death Sunday on the steps of the Federal Building and police said her action apparently was in protest against the Vietnam war.

She was tentatively identified as Florence Beaumont of suburban Baldwin Park.

Police said she was so badly burned they could not guess her age.

A Federal Building security officer said the woman poured a can of gasoline over her body and set herself on fire.

Police said a car believed to have belonged to the woman contained literature attacking the United States for its role in the Vietnam war.

to outline "long-range goals" of his administration.

"Rather than wait for the people to come to our office, we are going to them and talk with them in their own home towns," Tiemann pointed out.

Five Scheduled

Five town hall meetings have been scheduled this month and more may be added later, the governor said.

Among state officials who will accompany Tiemann on his trip to Alliance are Clayton Yettler, his executive assistant; State Tax Commissioner Murrell McNeil, and State Motor Vehicles Director Larry Johns.

Representatives from the Department of Roads and the Keep Nebraska Beautiful Committee will also be on hand at Monday's meeting.

Norfolk

Tiemann is scheduled to participate in the second town hall meeting Tuesday at Norfolk. The event will be held at the city auditorium at 7:30 p.m.

Among officials who will accompany the governor to Norfolk are Robert Barnett, gubernatorial counsel; Dr. Robert Osborne, state institutions medical director; Labor Commissioner Thomas Doyle; Adjutant General Lyle Welch, McNeil and Johns.

A representative of the Department of Roads will also participate in the Norfolk meeting.

Other town hall events scheduled this month:

—Holdrege, Thursday, municipal building, 7:30 p.m.

—Bellevue, Oct. 26, Bellevue High School, 7:30 p.m.

—Nebraska City, Oct. 31, Nebraska City High School, 7:30 p.m.

U.S. Doubles Field Experts Working With Viet Refugees

Saigon (AP) — The U.S. Embassy said Sunday it is doubling the number of field experts in its program to aid civilian victims of the Vietnam war, a program which has been criticized in Congress as inadequate.

The U.S. mission said 21 American refugee relief experts now are in the field and another 20 will arrive next week.

Official figures show 700,000 refugees in refugee camps or temporary shelters but authorities estimate the number of persons homeless because of the war may be twice that number.

The Senate judiciary subcommittee on refugees, headed by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has been investigating relief efforts and has been critical of them. Kennedy contends that civilian needs have taken a back seat to the military effort.

U.S. refugee officials in Saigon say privately they know that funds and supplies meant for refugees are being pilfered, but even with more field men they won't have enough personnel to do anything about it.

One U.S. official said:

"With the number of people we have we just can't keep a check on the diversion of funds and supplies by corrupt Vietnamese officials. I frankly don't know how much is getting to the refugees."

The United States pays most of the refugee bill, including $16.5 million in direct aid and about 90% of the cost of programs of the government's Special Commissariat for Refugees, another $9 million.

Sunday Wedding

At a late afternoon ceremony on Sunday, Oct. 15, the marriage of Miss Marilyn Jean VanAndel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter VanAndel, to Dennis Dean Borgman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Borgman, all of Denton, was solemnized at Grace Lutheran Church in Lincoln. The Rev. Frederick C. Nolte read the lines of the service at 5 o'clock, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Larry Lawton, organist, who also accompanied Burdette Piening, the vocal soloist.

Floor-length frocks of moss green chiffon fashioned with Empire basques of emerald green velvet were worn by Mrs. Roger Thomas, Pleasant Dale, the matron of honor; and the bridesmaids, Miss Shirley Stutzman, Milford; Miss Donna Schluckebier, Utica; and Miss Carolyn Busboom. They carried nosegays of white blossoms.

Serving as best man was Bob Borgman, Denton, and seating the guests were Roger Thomas and Gary Harral, Pleasant Dale; Myron Piening, Lowell Kilzer and Gary Lee.

The bride appeared in a sheath gown of white Chantilly lace. Seed pearl embroidery patterned the long sleeves and highlighted the crescent neckline of the bodice, and the slender lines of the skirt were emphasized by a redingote overskirt of lace-bordered taffeta which continued into a chapel train. A jeweled crown held her veil of silk illusion, and she carried a pinnacle arrangement of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Borgman will live in Denton.

IN

suburban areas

If you stumbled your way through Friday the 13th, the good news this morning is that the 13th will not fall on a Friday again until 1968 — in September. So there will be good luck and good news in suburbia for almost one year, and today is no exception.

Five Eastmont families were among the 'in person' rooters at Saturday's football game. Traveling by car to Lawrence for the Cornhusker-Kansas game and to Kansas City to spend the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. William Splichal, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Marlo Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Heidtbrink.

Remaining at home, but avid rooters nonetheless were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eberhard who entertained overnight guests Friday evening. Mrs. Eberhard's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dobberstein, and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Torbleau came from Madison, Wis., for the visit. On Sunday the guests traveled on to Aurora.

In Patrician Heights the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Barkmeier and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Modrow looked a little forlorn during the weekend when their owners took off for the Lawrence, Kan., football stadium. The sixsome were gone from Friday to Sunday.

Putting outdoor sports aside for the moment, we'll tell you that Mrs. Lorance Newburn entertained seven Rosemont neighbors on Wednesday. The morning coffee at Mrs. Newburn's home was in honor of Mrs. Ted Slagle who, with Mr. Slagle and youngsters, Kim, Jay and Barry, will be leaving Lincoln this week for a new home in Albuquerque, N.M.

Current houseguests at the Berlene

Fall Meetings Of State Clubs

Presiding at the fall meeting of the Nebraska Chapter, Society of Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, next Saturday at Omaha, will be Mrs. B. C. McLean of Lincoln, president of the state organization.

The meeting will follow a 12:30 o'clock luncheon at the Hotel Blackstone, and a musical program with a Centennial theme will be given by Mrs. Joseph C. Robinson of Omaha.

The semi-annual meeting of the Nebraska Writers town talk

Four down and six more to go. Three of the four football games have been played out of town, but No. 5 — with Colorado — is next weekend and in the home stadium. That means beginning on Friday when the guests will begin arriving, Lincoln will be whirling.

Oddly enough all of the guests are not from Colorado. We hear, for instance, that James B. Harley will be coming from Milwaukee, Wis., for the football weekend. Although Mr. Harley, who will be the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Burks Harley, will attend the game the Nebraska-Colorado battle really isn't the main inducement. His daughter, Miss Mary Harley, is. It will be Dad's Day on the campus next Saturday and Miss Harley, a will be Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Keyes, who ther for the festivities.

And coming from Idaho Falls, Idaho, Delta Gamma pledge, has invited her family to be the guests of Mrs. Keyes' mother, Mrs. Fenton Fleming. Joining her parents at the home of her grandmother for the game weekend will be Miss Marilyn Keyes of Columbus. Miss Keyes completed two years of Peace Corps service in South America last summer, and now is teaching Spanish in the Columbus High School.

We had thought that perhaps Mr. and Mrs. Phil Sidles might have game guests from Denver next weekend—their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bowman. But Mr. and Mrs. Bowman won't be here.

But we did hear that another Denver resident, William Gold, II, has plans for Lincoln and the Colorado game.

PTA Unit Programs

Prof. Roger Welch of the Nebraska Wesleyan University faculty, will be the guest speaker Tuesday evening at the monthly meeting of Randolph PTA.

The program will begin at 7:30 o'clock and will feature pioneer Nebraska folk music, and everyone is urged to wear Centennial costume.

Fifth and sixth graders are invited to attend with their parents.

Discussions on the new math will be a highlight of the Bethany PTA program, 7:30 o'clock, Tuesday evening, in the school auditorium.

Faculty members will be introduced during the program.

Angel Flight Coeds, Hostesses

Never let it be said that Air Force officers lack courage! The lone male guest at a Friday afternoon tea was Col. William L. McKay, head of the University of Nebraska Air Force ROTC, who is

Honored guests at the tea were Mrs. McKay and wives of the university's Air Force ROTC faculty. A special guest was Miss Shirley Thomas of Los Angeles, aero-space lecturer and author.

From the left are Miss

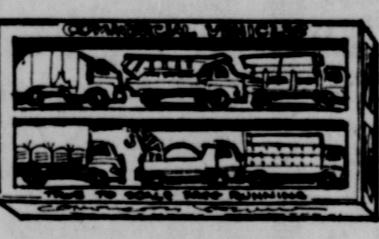

Jane Klimes, Clarkson; Miss Judy Maher, Bellevue, commander of Angel Flight; Miss Susie Sutorius, Gothenburg; Miss Thomas, Oakland; and Col. McKay.

Afternoon Ceremonies

For the wedding of Miss Carole Ann Bauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph R. Bauer, and Gerald E. Van Amerongen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Van Amerongen of Olds, Iowa, which took place Sunday afternoon, Oct. 15, bouquets of white gladioli and pompon chrysanthemums decorated the chancel of Frieden's Lutheran Church. The 4 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. Benjamin Warrington, and Mrs. George Bossung, organist, played the wedding music. The vocalist was Miss Patricia Harris.

Watteau frocks of royal blue brocade and powder blue crepe were chosen for Miss Carolyn Kehrl of Schuyler, the honor attendant; Miss Diane Adamscheck, the bridesmaid; and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Ralph Bauer, Jr., and Mrs. Glen Friendt. They carried cascades of white, feathered carnations.

Ronald Walker served Mr. Van Amerongen as best man, and the ushers were James Van Amerongen, Olds, Iowa; Ralph Bauer, Jr., and James Earleywine.

The bride's colonial gown was fashioned of white bouquet taffeta and Chantilly lace. The lace bodice was designed with long sleeves and a rounding neckline, edged with natural scallops of the lace, and lace edged the deep tiers of silk which formed the bouffant skirt. Her gown was completed by an aisle-wide court train of lace and silk, and a crown of jeweled lace held her pouf veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Mr. Van Amerongen and his bride will make their home in Mt. Pleasant, Iowa.

Youthful Beauty

From the early twenties, bed-time massage with a vitalizing night cream is ideal for softening traces of surface skin dryness and tiny lines. Apply Olay vitalizing night cream to cheeks, forehead, and throat and coat it into the skin with light, upward moulding strokes, then remove with a tissue. Such care will encourage complexion loveliness.

The bidding:

East South West North
Pass Pass 1 ♦ Dble
3 ♦ 4 ♦ 4 ♦ 5 ♦
Pass Pass Dble

Opening lead — ace of spades.

This hand occurred in the match between Italy and Argentina in 1958 and resulted in a 1,370-point gain for the Italian team.

At the first table, where Chiariadis and D'Alelio were North-South for Italy, the bidding went as shown. The Argentine West led the ace of spades, which was ruffed in dummy.

D'Alelio had no trouble making six. He played a club to the king and led a diamond. West took the ace and returned a second spade, ruffed in dummy with the jack. Declarer then cashed the king of diamonds, felling the queen, and discarded two hearts on dummy's long clubs to make the doubled contract with an overtrick.

So D'Alelio scored 950 points off Italy against a disappointed West who made only one trick despite his promising hand.

At the other table the bidding was less complicated but equally gratifying to the Italians. Belladonna, West for Italy, bid a spade after two passes. North doubled and Avarelli jumped to four spades.

North had no clearly indicated opening lead, but make the excellent choice of a club. Had he led a heart or a diamond, West would easily have made four. However, even the ace of clubs lead proved ineffective when South elected to signal at trick one with the queen.

South's reluctance to play the three on the ace is understandable—he was afraid that North would shift to another suit if he followed low—but the come-on signal with the queen proved fatal.

North continued with a club, but since West's jack became a trick in the process, the contract was easily made. Belladonna won South's diamond return with the ace, drew trumps, cashed the jack of clubs discarding a diamond from dummy and conceded a heart to the ace to score an additional 420 points for Italy.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for saying that a divorcee can be alone through no fault of her own, just as a widow is. Most people aren't willing to give a divorcee a kind word. I am a divorcee because a wealthy widow decided she wanted my husband.

"FOOD FOR THOUGHT"

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the widow who wonders why widows keep losing all the eligible men to divorcees is one that I would like to answer. My qualifications: A bachelor who has had a great deal of experience dating both.

On a man's first date with a widow, she will pull a picture of her "dearly beloved, deceased husband" out of her purse and then tell you how "wonderful" he was, and what a beautiful life they had together. (If you ask a round, their life wasn't nearly as "beautiful" as she said it was.)

Then, to show you how domestic she is, she invites you to her home where, on the living room wall, hangs a big picture of "HIM" staring you in the face all evening. (If you had any romantic ideas about her, this will kill them fast.)

Her conversation is about how "good" he was to her and the trips they had together. It is sickening.

A divorcee, on the other hand, will seldom mention her ex-husband's name. And if she does, she doesn't make you feel as though you are competing with a saint.

I've known exceptions, of course, but as a rule, divorcees are much better company. Sincerely,

EXPERIENCED

Confidential to C.V.K.: Young couples would do well to heed this advice. If you need money, don't borrow from a friend or relative on an "interest-free" basis. Get it from a bank or a legitimate loan agency, and pay the interest. The needling, abuse, and aggravation the indebted one sometimes gets from his "benefactors" isn't worth it.

A bit of nostalgia and a tune on the violin, Professor. When I was pursuing fire engines for the dailies, the most pungent, delicious spaghetti in San Francisco was served at the Fior d'Italia in North Beach.

It was a dream in melted butter. Topped with smashed fresh tomato. The garlic in it would have blown a safe. A bottle of red wine went with it. It was nourishing and within our price range. Which was modest — editors don't like to spoil the help.

So down to the Flower of Italy the other eve. To give memory a vote of confidence.

For openers in the tradition, you must drink Picon punch. The punch is made of Amer-Picon, a mixture of sugar and oranges, alcohol and herbs.

It is drunk mostly by Italians smoking twisted black cigars, playing pachinko in back rooms of bars you never were in.

A lot of it is drunk by Basque shepherds in Nevada and the rolling grazing hills of California.

It is made in France. But the bottle label looks pure Italian — all the red, green and gold flowered flamboyance of Italy's liquors.

In Europe, they drink it over ice.

The North Beach Italians and the Basque shepherds have their own way. They put a few ice cubes in a six-ounce glass. Pour a drop or two of grenadine over them. Add an ounce and a half of Amer-Picon. Top it up with soda water. Float a little California brandy on it. Ciao!

The Fior d'Italia opened in 1882 when North Beach was the famous Barbary Coast. Two stories. Dinner and dancing upstairs.

When Prohibition came, all the Italian restaurants continued to serve wine. In coffee cups.

Said George Marionetti, the owner: "I was the original wine kid. My father built a plywood cover over the back room. I sat back there with a rubber hose for a siphon and a 50-gallon barrel of home made wine."

"The waiters would come by and say in a loud voice: 'Six cupsa coffee.' I would suck on the siphon. Get the wine started. Fill six cups and slide them out under the plywood cover."

"Naturally," said George, "I had to suck up a mouthful of wine each time. I was always a happy kid."

Though Amer-Picon is drunk all over North Beach, you find it usually in traditional Italian restaurants.

The cocktail route hasn't discovered it — the makers wish they would. "Look what's happened to Campari."

The consumption is steady, San Francisco drinking more than all the rest of the country together.

The flavor is something like bitters.

The liquor was invented by Gaetan Picon of the French Army in Algeria in the early 1830s. They think he must have been a Supply Sergeant to get his hands on the ingredients.

The stuff was an instant hit with the Army. Must have been much like the "Jungle juice" that was distilled from yeast and canned peaches in the Pacific Islands in World War II.

Gaetan Picon got out of the Army and began making it in France. Nostalgic veterans made it popular. How it got started in San Francisco, I don't know.

The Fior d'Italia has become a posh restaurant these prosperous days. A luncheon meeting place for lawyers and stockbrokers. A dinner spot for families, lovers and — well, me.

You cannot recapture everything. I remember that garlicky, wonderful spaghetti. But my appetite runs to the broiled steak. I remember the house wine. But now I order the Beaujolais.

I remember the cost — about 75 cents for the complete dinner. Well, that's changed, too. But haven't we all, we all?

... 10-7 IN LAST EIGHT SECONDS

AS CLOSE AS THEY GOT — Nebraska's Ben Gregory is forced out of bounds by a swarm of Kansans at the Jayhawks' two-yard-line on the last play of the first half. This is the closest the Cornhuskers came to scoring.

It's Long Road Ahead For Huskers In Chase

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska, with its backs to the wall in its fight to retain the Big Eight football championship for a fifth straight year, must regroup quickly if it is to stay in contention.

Most Big Eight observers were willing to concede this year that the league champion would wind up with one loss, but they weren't reckoning on a team winning the conference crown with a loss to one of the so-called "little three."

Another point that was concedable was that one of the little three would jump up and bite a member of the big five, thus putting the victim in a bad position in the league chase.

That is exactly the position the Huskers find themselves in now with one league loss and games remaining with all those teams figured as contenders, starting with Colorado this week in Lincoln.

While Nebraska reached its ebb of futility, being blanked for the first time since Bob Devaney became head coach, in the 10-0 loss at Kansas, Colorado appeared to be nearing its peak and a lofty peak it could be.

The Huskers were hardly able to threaten, let alone score, against a team that had given up an average of 23 points per game in three previous losing efforts against such powers as Stanford, Indiana and Ohio.

Meanwhile, Colorado was rolling to an easy 23 points against a team that had allowed only a total of nine in three previous games with no tallies coming against Missouri on the ground — until they hit the Buffs.

Colorado not only scored twice on the ground, but rolled overland with amazing ease against a team that is not supposed to be run against.

While Nebraska's loss to Kansas was the big stunner and the ease with which Colorado handled Missouri was a mild surprise, they weren't the only surprising things in Big Eight football the past weekend.

Iowa State, a team some had thought would give up after suffering three losses by large scores, bounced back for a 17-0 win over Kansas State, a setback that may have dimmed the brightness of the purple carpets a bit at Manhattan.

Browns Gain Lead Share

TOP CARDS, 20-16

Cleveland (P) — Cleveland turned three St. Louis mistakes into an 11-point half-time lead, then held off the Cardinals' second half rally for a 20-16 National Football League victory Sunday and a share of the Century Division lead.

The four-point margin was on Lou Groza's two field goals his first two connections this season. The second, a 34-yarder, came with 58 seconds left in the game.

It was the first time in five years the Browns have beat en the Cardinals in Cleveland. Both clubs now have 3-2 records for the season.

Cleveland's 17-6 halftime lead was whittled to one point when Jim Bakken connected on his third field goal, a 14-yarder, with 10:23 left.

Two interceptions in the last two minutes put the game out of reach for the Cardinals, who have come from behind to win the last two weekends.

Cardinals quarterback Jim Hart plunged one yard to make it 17-13 in the third quarter after Jerry Stovall's interception set it up.

New Orleans tied the score shortly afterward when Dave Whitsell intercepted a Morton pass and ran it back 26 yards for a touchdown.

Dallas took the lead just four seconds before the first period ended when Norman dashed to the New Orleans nine. Don Perkins then went over from the two.

Feather Ring King Retires

. . . AFTER STOPPING WINSTONE

Mexico City (P) — Mexico's Vicente Saldivar, a great little fighter and the undefeated featherweight champion of the world, has hung up his gloves at the peak of his career.

The 24-year-old Mexican with the "golden left" surprised the boxing world by announcing his retirement Saturday night after he had stopped helpless Howard Winstone, the British and European champion from Wales, in 2:12 of the 12th round of a 15-round title fight in massive Aztec Stadium.

It was Saldivar's third victory in a title bout over the 28-year-old Winstone, his third defense of the year, and his seventh since he captured the crown from Sugar Ramon three years ago.

Saldivar, beaten only once in his career and that on a disqualification five years ago, has won 18 straight since then. He had a 33-1 record, including 25 knockouts.

"I had already planned to retire when the time came," Saldivar said, "although I had not made the decision yet when I stepped into the ring. I will take some rest and decide what to do in my new life."

Mexico's Luis Spota, president of the World Boxing Council, said an elimination tournament would be held to determine a new champion.

Saldivar earned $80,000 and

Vitriolic Charged Unseen

New York (P) — Vitriolic is not the type of horse easily overlooked on a race track. He is that big. But Jockey Laffit Pincay admits he didn't see the giant son of Bold Ruler-Sarcastic as Vitriolic came charging from behind to take Saturday's $179,500 Champagne Stakes for 1-year-olds at Aqueduct.

Pincay, latest of the riding sensations out of Panama, was sailing along in front aboard Iron Ruler, 1 1/2 lengths back and only one-eighth mile remaining of the one-mile race.

Then with the quickness that recalled the feats of Buckpasser, a retired stablemate, and more recently the performances of Damascus, Vitriolic burst into the lead and won by two lengths. Iron Ruler was second and Captain's Gig third.

"I didn't see Vitriolic," said Pincay. "When Ycaza (jockey Manuel Ycaza) couldn't make it with Captain's Gig I thought I had it. I was sure surprised when Vitriolic went by."

Braulio Baeza, astride Vitriolic for his fourth straight Champagne triumph with a horse owned by a member of the Phipps family, explained the $119,500 victory this way:

"Mr. Nelly (trainer Eddie Nelly) and I decided to change the style for Vitriolic in this race. It was run just as we planned. In his last couple of races in which Vitriolic lost to Iron Ruler and Captain's Gig, he had been too close to the pace."

"It was a fast pace and when I put the pressure to him in the stretch, he had plenty left to give me a big run."

The victory, achieved in stakes record time of 1:39 3/5, boosted Vitriolic's earnings to $316,881 on five wins, four in stakes, four seconds and two thirds in 12 starts.

It also assured Nelly and the Phipps family of a strong hand for the two rich Garden State stakes to be raced next month. Ogden Phipps has unbeaten Queen of the Stage headed for the Gardenia for juvenile fillies on Nov. 11.

Then a week later, he can send Vitriolic and Mrs. H. C. Phipps' What A Pleasure after the Garden State stakes, which carries a purse of more than $250,000.

San Francisco Wins 28-27

Philadelphia (P) — Ken Willard smashed four yards for the winning touchdown Sunday as the San Francisco 49ers overcame a fantastic series of bad breaks and crippling penalties to beat the Philadelphia Eagles 28-27 in a National Football League game.

Willard's run capped an 11-play, 80-yard drive which was given impetus by a personal foul and pass interference penalties against the Eagles.

He cracked over on third down with 4:04 gone in the final period to overcome a 27-21 Philadelphia lead.

The 49ers ran up a 21-10 halftime lead on a 22-yard touchdown run by Gary Lewis. Bob Windsor's recovery of a Willard fumble into the end zone and a three-yard scoring run by Lewis.

Knights Downed Twice In CHL

The Omaha Knights got off to a bad start in their 1967-68 Central Hockey League debuts by dropping two road games over the weekend.

Two power-play goals early in the second period started the Tulsa Oilers to a 3-1 victory over the Knights Sunday night after the Houston Apostles skated to an 8-1 breeze past the Knights Saturday night, with Christian Bordeau turning the hat trick for the winners.

Wayne Bell scored against Houston and Ken Gratton against Tulsa to account for the Knights' scoring.

Namath's Stop Saves Jets In 28-28 Tie With Oilers

HOUSON INTERCEPTS SIX PASSES

New York (P) — A game ending tackle by quarterback Joe Namath saved the New York Jets as Houston's defense intercepted six of his passes and helped the Oilers to a 28-28 American Football League tie with the Jets Sunday.

Namath, attempting to pass for the game-winner on the final play of the game, had his aerial picked off by W. K. Don Maynard to earn the tie. Al Atkinson set this up with an interception on the Oilers' 15.

Giants' Last-Minute Razzle-Dazzle Wins

Pittsburgh (P)—Fran Tarkenton's 59-yard touchdown pass to Joe Morrison off a razzle-dazzle triple reverse in the final two minutes gave the New York Giants a 27-24 upset over Pittsburgh Sunday in a National Football League game.

Tarkenton's scoring pass, his second to Morrison, came on the first play after New York's Clarence Childs recovered a fumble by the Steelers' Don Shy.

The winning play started when Tarkenton handed to Ernie Koy, who pitched the ball back to speedy Homer Jones. Jones lateraled to Tarkenton, who passed to Morrison all alone at the Steelers' 30.

Pittsburgh led 24-14 going into the fourth quarter, but an interception by Bill Swain set the Giants up in Steelers' territory and Tarkenton took them 37 yards in nine plays to score.

Tarkenton scored the touchdown himself, going seven yards with a lateral after Koy had apparently been stopped on a fourth down play.

After an exchange of punts, rookie quarterback Kent Nix moved the Steelers across mid-field on a 37-yard pass to J. R. Wilburn.

But two plays later, Shy fumbled and Childs recovered at the 41. There were two minutes left.

Tarkenton conferred with Giant Coach Allie Sherman at the sidelines, then came back with the wild play which resulted in the winning touch-down.

The Steelers led 17-14 at halftime, scoring both its touchdowns as a result of New York fumbles.

New York scored first, going 78 yards the first time it had the ball with Tarkenton throwing 19 to Morrison on fourth down in the end zone. Tarkenton took the Giants 79 yards in the second quarter before sub quarterback Earl Morrall dove over from the one.

Tarkenton left the game with a bruised hip just before halftime but was out for only one play—the one on which Morrall scored. He came back at the start of the second half.

McRae's clinching touchdown came with 6:13 left, minutes before Sayers pulled the Bears out of a hole with a 70-yard jaunt deep into Detroit territory.

Sayers scored the game's only other touchdown on a three yard run to cap an 83-yard drive under thunder, lightning and rain.

Detroit's deepest penetration in the first half was to the Bear 37, and the Lions lost their only threat-halfback Mel-Farr-early in the second quarter when the former UCLA star suffered an ankle injury.

At that time, Farr had carried eight times and gained 31 yards.

Traynham had kicked a 31-yard field goal with nine minutes to play for a 17-14 lead, but Jurgenssen moved the Redskins 83 yards in an outburst in which Mitchell had catches of 24 and 28 yards before his touchdown catch.

Tarkenton left the game with a bruised hip just before halftime but was out for only one play—the one on which Morrall scored. He came back at the start of the second half.

Parilli Fires For 5 TDs As Pats Win

Newton, Mass. (P) — Ageless Babe Parilli threw five touchdown passes—three to Jim Whalen and two to Larry Garrison—in firing Boston's American Football League gypsies to a 41-10 victory over the Miami Dolphins Sunday.

Parilli, a 37-year-old one-time Kentucky star, hit Whalen on a pair of nine-yard scoring shots, another of 23 yards and uncorked payoff tosses of 17 and 41 yards to Garrison.

Often booted by Boston fans, Parilli had most of the 23,955 fans cheering from the outset as he took charge in the Patriots' 1967 home debut, forced into Boston College Stadium because of the late finish of the World Series at nearby Fenway Park.

The Patriots, who posted a disappointing 1-3-1 record in the first five games away from home, spotted Miami a 3-0 lead when the Dolphins capitalized on a fumble recovery by Bob Petralia to set up a 34-yard field goal by Gene Mingo five minutes into the first period.

Omaha Indians Claim Treaty Lands Have Been Usurped By 'Palefaces'

By LEE JORGENSEN

Sioux City Journal Writer

Macy — The Omaha Indian nation says its sovereign lands have been invaded by palefaces.

Like other underprivileged nations around the globe, it is seeking United States help to throw the intruders out.

The difference between the Omaha nation and others that have called for U.S. aid is that all its lands lie within the United States.

Citizens Claim Title

The Indians say it is United States citizens who have moved in on their lands and tried to claim title.

They haven't decked themselves out in warpaint and feathers to fight the invaders. Instead, they have taken their battle to the U.S. District Court.

The property in question is between 2,000 and 3,000 acres of Missouri River bottom land a few miles north of Decatur, and not far from Onawa, Iowa, on the Iowa side of the river.

The Omahas say this was part of their original 301,000-acre reservation in Thurston County, attached to Iowa by Missouri River channel changes over the years.

Missouri Rambled

The mighty Missouri River rambled back and forth over quite a bunch of territory in Iowa and Nebraska before the U.S. Corps of Engineers stabilized the channel in the late 1950s.

Whenever it changed channel, the river would carve away the bank at one point and build up a new batch of real estate elsewhere. This process is known as accretion.

The Omahas have sat back and watched a number of actions by white claimants to quiet title to the accreted land.

They now say all the whites are Johnny-come-latelies and the rightful title to the tract in question still lies with the Omahas.

Federal Treaty
The Omaha tribal lands were given them in perpetuity by an 1854 treaty with the federal government, when it persuaded the Indians to move north from the area around Bellevue and Omaha. It was becoming a bit contested at the time with white folks who didn't cotton to Indian neighbors. The Missouri River was the eastern boundary of the reservation.

The Omahas argue that the original boundaries of the reservation remain as they were even though the river has moved part of the land to the Iowa side, and that white claimants are interlopers.

Donald O'Brien of Sioux City, recently resigned U.S. District attorney for Northern Iowa, has been hired by the

"I don't know what my search will bring," said O'Brien. "I have every hope to be able to ascertain the Indians' position in three or four months."

Edward Cline of Macy, family counselor for the Omahas, said the tribe feels the U.S. government, as guardian of the Indian lands, "let this property get away from us" in violation of the 1854 treaty.

As far as the various quiet title actions brought by whites concerned, he said the Omaha tribe wasn't made a party to them and in any case the state laws of neither Iowa nor Nebraska should apply since "there were no universal laws when we signed the treaty."

Insurance Expert Plans Speech To Lancaster AARP

Samuel C. Boardman, insurance service specialist for the American Association of Retired Persons, will address the Lancaster County Chapter of AARP at a 1 p.m. meeting Friday in the First Federal Savings and Loan Building.

AARP, headed in Lincoln by Miss Mabelle Allen, is designed to provide drug service at lower rates, offer group health insurance in connection with Medicare and provide a travel service for retired persons.

Private Enterprise System's Achievements Underplayed

MERRYLE RUKEYSER

Neglected Opportunity

bor-aiding capital goods (machinery).

Seemingly afraid of seeming commercial, the fair underplays the key contributions to improved material well-being made by individual entrepreneurs and aggregates of voluntary collaborators organized into modern corporations.

Maybe there was undue concern for the sensitivity of the Communist exhibitors from behind the Iron Curtain who participated. Accordingly, the naive who visited the exhibits may have found it difficult to appraise the relative roles of voluntary capitalism, on the one hand, and of regimented Marxist systems, on the other.

In giving the inside view, Pierre Dupuy, the fair's commissioner general, stated: "It has become increasingly difficult—and even more necessary—to compare and to know, which explains why exhibitions have acquired new scales of values. The London and Paris exhibitions of the last century revealed the Industrial Revolution. But what was this compared to the changes which science and technique have brought to individual and collective life in our time?"

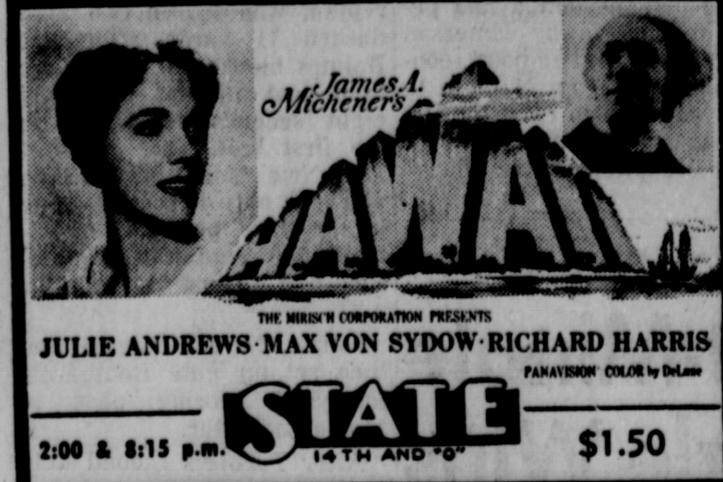

With all due respect to the commissioner general, who heads a successful and interesting fair, "science and technique" did not operate spontaneously in a vacuum. The modern corporation is a vast non-governmental engine for human cooperation, combining as a team creative scientists, engineers, imaginative tool makers, producers of raw materials, and other trained workers, and thrifty individuals who consume less than they produce and use the surplus as seed corn to finance the acquisition of labor. The role of medicine is particularly well done. It is sponsored collectively by the pharmaceutical industry of Canada, with individual corporate names obscured.

If corporate names are deliberately kept in the background, man is in the foreground as the hero, but the average man should be made aware of his debt to the small creative elite, who introduced constructive change.

Even if the fair underplays the niche of contemporary business in the changing world, it is full of interesting spectacles and is worth seeing.

Pope Cautions Laity About Interfering With Hierarchy

New York Times Service

Rome—Pope Paul VI issued a caution Sunday to Roman Catholic laymen, some of whom are pressing for greater power in the Church, against infringing on the spiritual and moral authority of the hierarchy.

In a speech at a mass for the 2,500 delegates to the third World Congress of the Lay Apostolate, the Pope said, "Anyone who attempts to act without the hierarchy, or against it, in its role as father of the family, could be compared to the branch that is no longer connected with the stem that provides its sap."

The warning appeared to be aimed at discouraging moves within the lay congress directed toward the establishment of a permanent international lay organization.

The Philippine delegation to the congress is sponsoring a resolution calling for the establishment of a world body along regional lines. The plan must first be approved by two-thirds of the heads of 103 national delegations and 80 international Catholic groups.

However, conference sources pointed out that there already was a framework for such an organization in the Vatican's Council of the Laity.

The papal warning comes at a time of ferment among Catholic laity, particularly in the United States.

This is reflected here by the desire to have the congress express itself on such issues as birth control and the Vietnam war.

While the war is a "secular" issue, the question of contraception involves Church doctrine. Furthermore, the Pope has reserved to himself the final decision.

City May End Ban On Nags For Newsboy

Virginia City, Nev. — A Virginia City ordinance banning horses from streets in this historic Comstock boom town may be repealed to permit a 14-year-old boy to deliver his newspapers.

Dist. Atty. Robert Schouweiler said Saturday the county commission was considering repealing the ordinance.

Gordon Barkley Jr., who delivers Reno newspapers on horseback, went to court to have the ordinance repealed. He obtained a temporary injunction permitting him to ride his mare, Lady, through Virginia City streets.

Barkley had argued that the ordinance threatened to put him out of business because the mare was his only means of delivering newspapers along his mountainside route.

Schouweiler said the commission did not want to hamper the boy's job.

The ordinance was aimed at riding stables catering to tourists "who did not understand the interest commissioners had in the streets," he said.

No Benefits For Negro Seen In South's Bright Prospects

© New York Times Service

New York — A team of economists and educators commissioned by the 10th Century Fund to study the employment outlook of the Southern Negro has reported that it is "discouraging."

"By 1965 'unemployment among Negroes in the South,' the social scientists said, "may still be more than a double that of Southern whites."

Their report, "The Advancing South: Manpower Prospects and Problems," was being published Sunday. In an interview last week four team members stressed that the outlook for Negroes in the South was in sharp contrast to that for whites, even for poor whites.

'Fastest Developing'

Dr. James G. Maddox, professor of economics at North Carolina State University at Raleigh, research director of the project, said the researchers had found that "the South is the fastest developing of the country's and the world's developing regions."

"The South is likely to generate jobs much more rapidly from now until 1975 than it has in the past two decades," Professor Maddox said.

"It isn't the South we're discouraged about, quite the contrary," he said. "We've reached generally optimistic conclusions about the future of the South."

INCOMES TO RISE

"The indications are that Southern incomes will continue to rise as the balance shifts from low-wage to high-wage industries, that the rising new industries will attract other industries as buyers or suppliers of manufactured goods and that the quality of the labor force will continue to improve."

But the Southern Negro has no prospect of sharing in the South's economic boom, he said, "so long as he is under-educated, lacks industrial experience, and is subjected to racial discrimination."

Dr. Vivian W. Henderson, president of Clark College, Atlanta, who was chairman of the Fisk Economics Department when he collaborated in the study, supported Maddox, no relation of Lester G. Maddox, segregationist governor of Georgia.

Henderson said that even with the improvement projected for the South's economy, the Southern Negro would do better economically outside the South unless the South made a radical change in its discriminatory policies.

EMIGRATION FORCED

This means, he said, that "the pressures will remain which are forcing Negroes to emigrate to cities in the North and West which are not prepared to absorb them."

Prof. Herbert M. Hamlin of the University of California at Berkeley, a specialist in vocational-technical education, developed as part of the study a set of policies for improving education in the South.

These call for integrating the schools, for overcoming the gap in achievement levels between white and Negro pupils, for developing needed specialized services — teacher training and for vocational training to upgrade the skills of adults.

Hong Kong Reds Continue Terrorism

Hong Kong — Communists used 34 real and 69 imitation bombs in a continuation of their offensive against Hong Kong Sunday.

NO ONE WAS HURT

No one was hurt in the 34 explosions except three men believed to have been involved in throwing one of the explosive devices at police from the fringes of a crowd in Kowloon. One of the three was blown to pieces. The other two were injured.

A number of Sunday's explosions occurred when Communist-organized demonstrators gathered and police came to disperse them. Police used tear gas, guns firing wooden pellets and batons to break up the demonstrations.

Playground Bomb

Real and imitation bombs were also placed in front of theaters, on streets, near markets and, in one instance, in a children's playground. Chinese civilians caught the man who planted the bomb in the playground. They beat him and turned him over to police.

SUNDAY'S BOMB HARASSMENT

Livened an otherwise quiet day and kept police busy investigating reports of bomb sightings and dealing with the devices that were found.

The amateurishly made bombs caused no material damage. Aside from Communist efforts to injure policemen, the bombs, as with most of the hundreds of others that have been used by the Communists since they began insurrectionist activities in Hong Kong six months ago, seemed largely intended to attract attention with a big bang.

Public Appreciation

Police arrested 41 persons in connection with today's incidents. A police spokesman expressed public appreciation for the help Chinese civilians gave in grabbing persons throwing or carrying bombs.

There was no news of a British police inspector who was dragged into China from the Hong Kong side of a bridge across the Shumchun River at Mankanto on the Hong Kong-China border.

Police headquarters gave the inspector's name as F. G. Knight, 38. He is from Dagenham, Essex, and is un-married.

Authorities closed the border at Mankanto, one of several crossing points for local farmers along the 15-mile Hong Kong-China frontier. The main border crossing is at Lowu. Farmers use Mankanto to carry vegetables, pigs and other farm items from China over a local road to sell in Hong Kong.

Oakdale Man 'Satisfactory'; Suffered Burns In Plant Fire

Neligh (UPI) — Manuel Thompson, 25, of Oakdale, was reported in satisfactory condition in a hospital Sunday suffering with second and third degree burns over most of his body.

Thompson was burned Friday when flames destroyed the Miller Olson Manufacturing Co. plant in Neligh, causing damage estimated at $20,000.

The seven-year-old steel building was used in the manufacture of farrowing pens.

Mrs. Wayne Miller of Neigh, the wife of the plant owner, said the fire started when sparks from a welder ignited a 150-gallon vat of paint.

Thompson was the only employee in the building at the time.

Mrs. Miller said her husband has made arrangements to sell the business to the Ord Manufacturing Co. of Ord.

Open House Held

Lisbon (UPI) — The U.S. Navy missile-launching cruiser Springfield held open house for Portuguese.
